Airbus Helicopters delivered four new helicopters to Philippine customers from its regional completions centre in Singapore in early December, including a new H155 Dauphin for a healthcare provider and an H145 for a business aviation company, but operated by the Philjet Group.

Together with two H130s delivered direct to the Philjet Group in Manila earlier in 2017, and a third H130 and second H145 also now in service, Airbus delivered a total of six helicopters to the Philippines during the year, all to be used for passenger transportation.

Robinson Helicopter has delivered the first utility R44 Cadet helicopter fitted with floats. The aircraft, temporarily registered N7166G, before delivery, has been purchased by a Mexican company and will be used to support tuna and fishing fleet operations.

The first Bell 505 JetRanger X helicopters to be delivered outside North America have begun operating in mid December with Australian operator, Nautilus Aviation. The aircraft, ordered three years ago, have been especially configured for the Australian operations and will be used primarily for tourism and utility operations.

Nautilus Aviation now has a fleet of 27 helicopters, based at Cairns, Townsville, Darwin and Horn Island, and last year was also awarded a contract to operate the Westpac Life Saver Rescue helicopter in southern New South Wales.
